RECENT PROJECT

WLoC Programming Project
(2025)

WLoC stands for "With the Line of Codes", a platform where you can find various posts about different topics including music, art, and more. Basically, it is a collection of posts that I have written over time.

After all, I am a human being and I have my own interests and hobbies. So, I thought why not share them with the world? However, I am not a professional writer, that is why I decided to share my thoughts and ideas in a more unique way. That is with the codes, which I learn from certain programming languages and concepts. And then, I create contents, designs, webpages. All with the lessons I have learned so far and I will try my best to make them interesting and informative. In a meaningful way, I am sharing my journey of learning and exploring the world of programming and web development.
